THE JEWEL OF ASIA WITHOUT A SPARKLE

The Second Comedian Glimmered a Little and Shed Some Light.

"The Jewel of Asia," as a production, was a jewel without a sparkle. Even the glare of the doodlight from the machine was a jower without a sparkle. Even the glare of the floodlight from the machine in the gallery fulled to show a glimmer. The entire performance was almost without life. The second comedian, Stuart Hyatt, as Sergeant Lafitte, being the possessor of a pair of loose legs, long and lank, managed to so content those members that the audience became aroused and sat up for a few minutes. When the legs disappeared behind the scenes and refused to do another twist, the audience sighed and gettied back comfortably to witness the remainder of the performance. The first concedian, Mr. William Blaisdel, couldn't even make the chorus girls laugh. A comedian who cannot get a smile from the chorus is in a bad way. How can he expect to make those in front laugh?

"The Marriage of Kitty."

"Magic Wishing Cap."

"Dionysius Fly," the stranded theutrical manager, is guilty of all sorts of funny breaks at the Bijou this week. With his "wishing cap" he performs all sorts of miracles, and incidentally he gets all of his enemies into hot water. Garrick McCreedy, the tragedian, is in canable hands, and with his posing and ranting he manages to keep on the best of terms with his audience. "The Show Girl" is drawing better this season than last, the house being filled at each performance. The usual matinee will be given to-day, the play running the rest of the week.

Next Week's Thriller.

Next Week's Thriller.

"The poor are always good to the poor" is a truism heard in the new play, "Her Pirst False Step." which begins a week's engagement at the Bijou Monday.

A kind-hearted old Irish woman, herself little above want, yet finds means to spare from her scanty store a little food to help keep life in her more unfortunate neighbor a heartbroken mother, with a dying child. This quaint old lady, with her sharp, ready tongue, but sympathetic jiestt, teaches a lesson, which, if followed by all, would soon end much sorrow and misery and make the world brighter for many poor unfortunates.

Snead Against Allan.

Snead Against Allan.

When the Republican State Central Committee assembles in Lynchburg Saturday night an appeal will be presented in the case of Smead vs. Allan, concerning the position of executive committeeman for the Third District in the party organization. Mr. C. P. Smead, of King William, was the contestee, and his followers claim that he was duly elected at the Norfolk convention. Mr. Edgar Allan, 3r., of this city, contested his claim, and the contest was heard by the State Executive Committee and decided in Mr. Allan's favor by a close vote. From that decision Mr. Snead now appeals to the State Control Committee, which consists of fifty members, five from each district.

At the same meeting Mr. John G. Luce of Goochland county, will contest the claim of Mr. Miles M. Williams, of this city, to the district chairmanship.

Telegram From Washington Spreads Hope in Collector's Office.

WHAT WILL MR. TREAT DO

President Has Promised to Take Care of Former Marshal.

Doputies in the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Asa, Rogers inveloen much reassured by the news tolegraphed from Washington Tuesday afternoon stating that the President has determined to retain Collector Rogers in office, certainly until he could decide upon some one for the place. For ten days or two weeks there has been noticeable and any annual anxiety among the employes not unnatural anxiety unong the employes of the office at the possibility of a change of collectors. Following the first alarm cume news from Washington that certain compilaints as to Collector Rogers's procedure in some of the business of the office has been brought to the President's attention. This again upset matters, and anxiety again asserted itself. Captain Rogers has made several trips to Washington, and has been accompanied by friends on each eccasion. Recently letters and telegrams from prominent citizens, tobseco manufacturers and dealers, banks and lawyers, merchants, etc., have been forwarded to the President urging the retention of the collector.

The deputies are generally theroughly loyal in their fealty to Collector Rogers and are hopeful of his reappointment or rather the renewal of his official bond for years. It is not necessary to send this nomination to the Senate for confirmation, the President merely directing the Secretary of the Treasury to renow the bond of the collector in case of reappointment.

ale, which officers will be elected for the casuling year and reports submitted on the condition of the association and the results of the last show. The precise date of the meeting has not been amounced. It is understood that the proceeds of the 1901 show were just about the same as those of 1903. This will be gratifying to the many friends of the show, forecasting a continued and well maintained interest in this form of public entertainment. By many the opinion was expressed that the zenith of interest in the show had been reached and passed, but there is no sign of a decline of interest. The promise of the President to ex-Mar-shal Morgan Treat, made and reiterated to him and to others, that he would look out for him or provide for him, or words to that effect, have renewed the impres-sion that Mr. Rossovelt may assign the retiring marshal to the collectorship Messrs. Treat and Rogers are on entirel cumpaign, Mr. Treat has aroused considerable political antagonism, and his foes have been active in their efforts to secure his retirement.

Captain Rogers and General Stith Bolling went to Washington Monday, and up to the close of business yesterday the collector had not returned. He has secured many flattening endorsements estimated. many flattering endorsements asking for his reappointment, and his friends are greatly encouraged at the status of the situation and regard his selection for an-other term as practically assured.

The ladies point out that for sovera years supplies of all kinds, especially provisions, have been advanced steadily in price, while there has not been correspond price, while there has not been corresponding advance in salaries, especially those of young women. Therefore, the managers of this home for working girls, where the board is put at a very low figure, had hesitated to raise the price of board, feeling that it would not be possible for the young women with such limited income to pay more than is now being charged. "For many years," one of the lady managers said to a Times-Dispatch witler yesterday, "we had a large outside membership. Having Large Audiences.

The Salvation Army had a rousing meeting last night in their line headquarters in the hall over McCarthy and Haynes, on Broad Street.

Fully one hundred people were present, and the audience was composed of men and women who paid the strictest atteition to the speakers.

The hall is commodious and well lighted, with a seating capacity of perhaps 150 people. At one end a platform has been creeted, before which hangs a neat curtain of red, the usual color of the Salvationist.

On the platform sat Captain and Mrs. Fleming, who have, by their carnest work and personal popularity, strongly established the Salvation Army in Richmond. With these were two officers of the army in uniform and two recent recruits.

If last night's meeting is to be taken as an liddex to the popularity of the Salvationist, it looks as though they would become a considerable factor in the religious work in the city.

These people are carnest and full of energy and enthusiasm. They call a spade a spade and look evil fairly in the face. No matter to what creed one owes allogianes, the solemn words of Captain Fleming and his wife carry conviction to all within the sound of their voices.
